WALTER ALLEN.

BY ALLEN H. BENT, OF BOSTON.*

WALTER ALLEN settled in Newbury, Massachusetts, probably in 1640, the year the immigration from the old world practically ceased for a century to come. In 1677 he took oath that he was 76 years old, so that he was born about the year 1601 (while Elizabeth was still Queen of England), and was therefore, at the time of his arrival in America, in the prime of life. New England, too, had passed the experimental stage, some twenty-six thousand settlers having already arrived. A large number of these early settlers were sturdy husbandmen, with the necessary sprinkling of blacksmiths, carpenters, fishermen, etc. After the pioneers came the shop-keepers. Walter Allen was one of these. A hatter by trade, he was without much doubt brought up in one of the haberdashers' guilds in some English town or city, serving his apprenticeship between the ages of fourteen and twenty-one, the custom then as well as for centuries before and since. The merchant guilds or trading corporations, known in those days as Livery Companies or Mysteries (the one named from the distinctive dress worn by the respective guilds, the other from the fact that members were sworn not to discover the secrets of their craft), are of great antiquity and importance in England, and some knowledge of them and of England at that time is necessary to get a clear idea of Walter Allen's life before he came to America.

* Prepared for the third annual gathering of the Society of Descendants of Walter Allen at Shrewsbury, Mass., Aug. 24, 1900.

In London to-day there are about eighty of these companies, although only twelve are, or have been, considered of prime importance, the Haberdashers occupying the eighth position. The significance of these guilds, which were given charters by the earlier kings, will be better appreciated when it is called to mind that they grew by degrees into the governing bodies of the towns, and in London the city hall is still called the Guildhall. In 1640 England, which now has so many large manufacturing centres, had but three towns — London, Bristol and Norwich — with a population of over ten thousand. The Haberdashers' Company of London (most of the companies in the provincial towns have become extinct and their records lost or destroyed) was united in the time of Henry VI, A. D. 1447, with the Cappers or Hatters Company (Hurrers they were originally called), and after the union the members of the latter were generally called haberdashers of hats (in distinction from the original haberdashers who sold ribbons, laces, etc.), and this is Walter Allen's occupation in a deed of the year 1673. In several earlier instances he is called simply haberdasher, and in 1652, hatter. Thus it will be seen that Walter Allen's business and the training for it were such that most of his life in the old world must have been passed in the towns rather than in the country.

In common with the other great livery companies, the Haberdashers were severe sufferers in the troublesome times of Charles I. In 1640 they were compelled to contribute their quotas of several loans assessed by the government for the prosecution of the king's northern campaign. In the midst of all this confusion, caused by the political and religious despotism of Charles I, Walter Allen left his old world home, rather than submit to the increasing tyrannies of the king. It is evident that he did not come to New England for religious reasons, for he never joined the church in this country, although obliged, of course, to go. As none but members of the Puritanic church were allowed to become freemen in the Massachusetts Bay Colony, he never cast a vote nor held political office, though undoubtedly the head of many a pious Puritan was covered with one of his steeple-crown hats.

Newbury, which remained the home of Walter Allen for about a dozen years, was settled in 1635, at Old Town, as it is now called, along Parker River, which finds the sea a mile or two below, "where the long stretches of Plum Island guard the coast." Among the early settlers were Percival Lowle (Lowell), Wm. Longfellow* and Edmund Greenleaf, the respective ancestors of three of New England's best known and beloved poets. The latter was the progenitor of the good Quaker poet, whose Whittier ancestor settled in the next town to the north — Salisbury — where another of the numerous Allens, Wm. Allen, early located.† Whittier has many references to his ancestral town,‡ and in "The Prophecy of Samuel Sewall" are these lines :

"I see, far southward, this quiet day,
The hills of Newbury rolling away
With the many tints of the season gay.

And round and round, over valley and hill,
Old roads winding, as old roads will,
Here to a ferry and there to a mill,
And glimpses of chimneys and gabled eaves,
Through green elm arches and maple leaves.

Beyond are orchards and planting lands,
And great salt marshes and glittering sands,
And, where north and south the coast lines run,
The blink of the sea in breeze and sun."

* Wm. Longfellow was not a contemporary of the others.

† Rev. Chas. H. Pope, in his "Pioneers of Massachusetts," enumerates twenty-four heads of families bearing the name of Allen among the settlers of Massachusetts before 1650.

‡ See "The Double-Headed Snake of Newbury," "The Swan Song of Parson Avery," "In the Bay of the Seven Islands," and the last stanza of "The Tent on the Beach."

This is an excellent description of Newbury Old Town to-day. There are a few old houses, still fewer new ones, a long, bare hill, numerous apple "orchards and planting lands," an arm of the sea ebbing and flowing twice a day, and, for the rest, salt marsh stretching toward the rolling sand dunes of Plum Island. In 1642 the scarcity of tillage land and the desire to engage in commercial pursuits led some of the inhabitants to move to the banks of the Merrimac, three or four miles to the north, in what is now the city of Newburyport. Four years later the meeting-house was moved to the "new towne," near the present line between Newbury and Newburyport.

There is nothing to show that Walter Allen moved at that time, but it seems probable that he went with the majority. His business would keep him with the larger number of people and near the best transportation facilities. In fact, nothing definite is known of his life in Newbury, except that his name appears in a list of ninety-one grantees in the proprietors' book of records in December, 1642, when they are all declared to be freeholders, that is, land owners. As early as 1652, however, he had moved to Charlestown, as will be seen by the following extract from the Book of Possessions of that town:

"Testimoniall of a sale of a Hous and ground standing and scituate in Charletowne, by Anthony Dicks (Dix), carpenter, then resident in Charletown, untoo Gualter Allen, Hatter, alsoe resident in Charletowne.

"Memorandume, That I, Harman Garret, inhabitant in Boston, New England, doe Testifye and wittness That Antony Dicks did sell a Hous and Ground unto Walter Allen, which Hous and Ground was the hous and Ground of m^r Phillips, that now keeps the ship taverne in Boston: Hee bought it, and Dwelt in it, and sould it to the sayd Antony Dicks: Which Hous and Ground is in Charletowne, and stands at the cross lane as wee goe up to Deacon Lynds hous: and it Butts upon the street way going towards Cambridge: I testify that there was a full Bargaine, and my hand was to the Bargaine writing: This was taken upon oath the thirtieth day of september 1652."

The cause of Walter Allen's removal was doubtless a desire to find a better market for his wares. The colonial capital was just across the Charles River, on the one hand, and the college town of Cambridge adjoining on the other, beyond which was Watertown, at that time second only to Boston in size. Charlestown itself contained but about 150 dwellings at the time. The events of June 17, 1775, made the name of Charlestown familiar to two continents. In 1652 the name of Allen was already well known there. Capt. John Allen (1615-1675) had become a settler in 1639, and a few years later was the richest man in town. The same year (1639) Rev. Thomas Allen became teacher of the church, but he had just returned to England (1651) when Walter Allen arrived upon the scene. The Rev. Thomas Allen married, first, the widow of John Harvard, and second, the widow of Maj.-Gen. Robert Sedgwick, both of whom had been residents of Charlestown. Deacon Robert Hale, the ancestor of Rev. E. E. Hale, Capt. Thomas Beecher (vice-admiral of Winthrop's fleet), the ancestor of Harriet Beecher Stowe, and James Thompson, ancestor of Benj. Thompson, Count Rumford, were among the early settlers of the town.

Walter Allen's house and orchard, which remained in his possession until his death nearly forty years afterward, was probably on the present Main Street, at the corner of what is now called Devens Street. The size of his house lot is nowhere mentioned, but evidently it was not large. However, it was in a busy part of the town, and soon became known as Allen's corner. (In 1654 Matthew Gibbs was appointed to see to the swine from Allen's corner to the neck. The swine evidently had a way of wandering out upon the highways, much after the manner of swine to-day in some of our southern towns.) A little further along Main Street S. F. B. Morse, of telegraph fame, was born in the following century. In 1657 Walter was granted thirty-four acres of wood and five acres of commons in a division of Charlestown common lands at "Mistick side," between Malden and Medford Farms.

Prior to April, 1662, he moved to Watertown Farms (the farmers' or western precinct of Watertown), incorporated Jan. 1, 1712/13, as the town of Weston. It was probably about that time that he bought of Nathaniel Bowman the 75-acre farm to which he refers later. In 1665 he added two more farms to his holdings, one of 60 acres from John Knapp, the other of 100 acres from Henry Freeman. In 1669 he bought of Joseph Crosby the Mayhew farm, so called, containing 200 acres, adjoining his earlier purchases.* These farms, about fifteen miles west from Boston, were in the north-western part of the town, two and one-half miles from the village at the centre, joining the Concord boundary (the part now Lincoln), and not far from the line of Sudbury (the part now Wayland), where his eldest son, John, had in the same year (1662) located. The farms were bought probably as a permanent home for his other sons, for though Walter, according to the tenets of his old world bringing up, had them learn a trade,—two were tailors and one a cooper, the former representing one of the more prominent English trades, and the latter, in view of the increasing amount of cider and rum disposed of in New England, equally important,—by this time he was beginning to realize that in New England every man must till the soil in addition to plying his trade. Walter's son Joseph probably immediately joined his father, and some of his descendants remained there until the year 1835, when Horatio⁶ Allen sold the remaining portion and went West. In 1673, or possibly just before, Walter's son Daniel located beside his brother at "the Farms," the father conveying a part of his lands to them, Walter himself returning to Charlestown, where he had retained his real estate, or most of it, during his residence in Watertown. In 1665 he had sold a lot 60 ft. by 24 ft. to Enoch Bolton for a gunsmith's shop, and in 1669 he sold to Henry Balcom a house lot with a frontage of 32 ft. 9 in. on the highway, "thence running in a line down through the orchard taking in two Apple trees." In Charlestown he remained until his death, July 8, 1681, at the age of eighty. The inventory of his estate amounted to £315, including a Haverhill farm that came into his possession in 1673 in payment of a debt due from Thomas Davis. "The dwelling house and ground at Charlestown," which his sons sold three months afterward to Henry Balcom and Isaac Johnson, were valued at £105 and the "Shope goods" at £3-14-0. He also had a little live stock,—one hog, three sheep, and two lambs. Twice (in 1665 and 1669) during his residence at Watertown Farms he is called planter or "farmour" (husbandman was the more common designation for a tiller of the soil), but at other times, and in fact during those two years he is referred to as hatter, shopkeeper, haberdasher or "Haberdasher of Hatts," which would indicate that he continued to carry on his old business.

* The Mayhew farm was bequeathed to Walter's son John, and the others, either by deed of 1673 or by will, were divided between Daniel and Joseph.

The following extract from the Records of the Colony of Massachusetts Bay, in 1672, seems to show that the hatters must have been among the earliest advocates of a protective tariff on manufactured goods :

"In answer to the peticon of John Clough, John Tapping, & seuerall others, hatters, the Court judgeth it meet to declare, that when the hatters shall make as good hats & sell them as cheape as are affoorded from other parts, they shall be willing & ready to answer their peticon."

Walter's wife Rebecca, with whom he had lived for nearly half a century, was probably the Rebecca Allen who died in Charlestown, Aug. 7, 1678. She was certainly living as late as Jan. 26, 1677, when she signed a deed with her husband. It is pleasant to note the filial affection that led three of her four sons to name their first daughter after her.

Walter Allen married second, at the age of 77, Nov. 29, 1678, Abigail Rogers, who died in Watertown, April 28, 1703, ae. 78 (that is, born about 1625). She was probably the widow of John Rogers, of Watertown, who died Dec. 22, 1674, ae. 80, and daughter of Ambrose Martin, who settled in Concord, near by, in 1639. In 1654 the court ordered that the house and lands of Ambrose Martin, who deceased nine or ten years before, be divided equally between the wives of Saml. Rayner and Jno. Rogers.

Children of Walter and Rebecca, i. to iii., born presumably in England ; iv. and v. in Newbury, Mass. :

WALTER ALLEN'S DESCENDANTS.

1. WALTER¹ ALLEN was in Newbury, Mass., in 1640 and possibly before (the town was incorporated in 1635), but moved to Watertown about 1652. In 1665 he sold his estate in the latter town and bought sixty acres near the Concord boundary in what was then called Watertown Farms, afterward the town of Weston. In 1669 he purchased 200 acres more in Watertown Farms. About 1673 he moved to Charlestown, where he died July 8, 1681, æ. 80. He took oath in 1677 that he was 76, so he must have been born about 1601. At his death he not only owned land in Watertown and Charlestown, but in Sudbury and Haverhill. The latter farm came into his possession in 1673 in payment of a debt due from Thomas Davis.

Walter Allen's occupation is variously given in the old records as "farmour," planter, haberdasher, shop-keeper, and once (1673) more specifically, as a "Haberdasher of Hatts." The inventory of his estate amounts to £3015, a goodly sum for those days. When he came to Watertown he had a wife Rebecca, who died ———, and he married in Charlestown, Nov. 29, 1678, Abigail Rogers.

Children of Walter and Rebecca, the first three born probably in England, the other two in Newbury:

2. i. JOHN.
3. ii. DANIEL.
4. iii. JOSEPH.
 - iv. ABIGAIL, b. Oct. 1, 1641.
5. v. BENJAMIN, b. Apr. 15, 1647.

2. JOHN² ALLEN, (*Walter*¹) lived in Newbury, Mass., until 1662, when he moved to Sudbury, where he died Dec. 1, 1711, probably about 80 years old. He was a tailor, perhaps the tailor of the town, though for a few years in the latter part of his life he had a competitor in Enoch Cleveland, youngest son of Moses Cleveland of Woburn, the first American ancestor of President Cleveland. John Allen also had a farm, where he lived, in the part of Sudbury now Wayland.

Sudbury was attacked by the Indians during King Philip's War in 1676, and John Allen was one of the sufferers, his loss on a petition to the General Court being estimated at £60. In 1688 he was one of those who took the public stock of ammunition into their hands, a sort of minute man. It is probable that his son

Thomas was killed during the first French and Indian War (King William's War, 1689), as John Allen's name appears on a petition of those "some of us for ourselves, others for our children and servants who were last winter impressed into dreadful service, where by reason of cold and hunger and in tedious marches many score of miles in snow and water, and laying on the snow by night, having no provision but what they could carry on their backs, beside hard arms and ammunition, it cost many of them their lives."

John left a will, dated Aug. 9, 1708, three years before his death, his son Benjamin being made executor. His first wife, Sarah, died Jan. 12, 1702, and his second wife, Mary, is probably the Mary Allen who died in Sudbury, Aug. 30, 1727.

Children of John and Sarah, i. to v. born in Newbury, vi. to viii. in Sudbury :

- i. DEBORAH, m. Joseph Dean.
- ii. JOHN, b. Aug. 28, 1656; died before his father.
- 6. iii. SAMUEL, b. April 8, 1658.
- 7. iv. JOSEPH, b. March 18, 1660.
- 8. v. BENJAMIN, b. Jan. 30, 1662.
- vi. REBECCA, b. May 20, 1664.
- vii. THOMAS, b. April 29, 1666; d. March 23, 1689.
- viii. SARAH, b. March 7, 1668; d. unm., Aug. 29, 1702.

3. DANIEL² ALLEN, (*Walter*¹) lived in various places. His first two children were born in Charlestown. Thence he went to Watertown, and from there to Lancaster in 1661 or 1662, but returned in a few years (1670 to 1674) to Watertown. His last years were passed in Sudbury, probably with his son Elnathan, and in Sudbury he died early in 1705, presumably, for his son Elnathan settled his estate in April, 1705. Savage must be in error when he says he died March 7, 1694. There was a Dr. Daniel Allen of Boston, who died May 7, 1694, and they were evidently confused. Bond says 1706, but that was a slip of the pen most likely.

Daniel Allen married, about 1658, Mary, daughter of Rev. John Sherman (1613-1685), third minister of Watertown. It has been stated that Daniel was married again, about 1664, to Mary, daughter of Thomas Wilder of Lancaster, but this is evidently an error, for his wife Mary receives a bequest, in 1685, from the estate of her father, Rev. John Sherman.

Children of Daniel and Mary, i. and ii. born in Charlestown; iii., vii., viii., and probably ix. to xi. in Watertown, and iv., v., vi. in Lancaster:

- i. DANIEL, b. July 1, 1659; d. Oct. 23, 1662.
- ii. REBECCA, b. Jan. 15, 1661; d. ten days later.
- iii. MARY, b. 1662; possibly the Mary m. at Stonington, Conn., in 1707 to Thomas Hollyoake. It is certain her brother was in Stonington.
- iv. SAMUEL, b. April 17, 1664; much uncertainty about him. He is, perhaps, the Samuel who m. 1683, Elizabeth Grout, of Sudbury.
- 9. v. ELNATHAN, b. Jan. 7, 1667.
- vi. THOMAS, b. Feb. 20, 1670; d. 1671.
- vii. ABIGAIL, m. April 1, 1703, Moses Palmer, of Stonington, Conn.
- 10. viii. EBENEZER, b. Dec. 26, 1674.
- ix. REBECCA, b. June 2, 1677; d. 1678.
- x. ELIZABETH, m. Joseph Fletcher.
- xi. LYDIA.

4. JOSEPH² ALLEN (*Walter*¹) was a cooper, and lived in Watertown Farms (incorporated in 1712 as Weston), probably in the north-western part, near both Concord and Sudbury. He died in Weston, Sept. 9, 1721, probably eighty or over. He left a will, dated Jan. 11, 1713, his son Nathaniel being executor.

Joseph Allen married Oct. 11, 1667, Anne Brazier, who died in December, 1720.

Children of Joseph and Anne:

- i. ABIGAIL, b. 1668; d. 1668.
- ii. REBECCA, b. 1670; d. 1675.
- iii. ANNA, b. 1674; d. 1698.
- 11. iv. JOSEPH, b. June 16, 1677.
- v. SARAH, d. 1699.
- vi. DEBORAH, m. 1714, John Moore, of Sudbury, where she d. Dec. 5, 1744.
- 12. vii. NATHANIEL, b. Dec. 8, 1687.
- viii. RACHEL, b. about 1690; m. 1718, Joseph Adams (1688–1774), of Cambridge, where she d. Aug. 1, 1775, æ. 85.
- ix. PATIENCE.

5. BENJAMIN² ALLEN (*Walter*¹) settled in Lancaster, the oldest town in Worcester Co., but as Lancaster was nearly wiped out of existence by the two attacks of King Philip's Indians in 1675 and 1676, the inhabitants had to seek shelter elsewhere. Benjamin seems to have gone to his father's in Charlestown, where he died Sept. 20, 1678, æ. 31. It is not known what became of the children.

Children of Benjamin and Hannah, born in Lancaster:

- i. BENJAMIN (twin), b. Sept. 7, 1671.
- ii. HANNAH (twin), b. Sept. 7, 1671.
- iii. ABIGAIL, b. Jan. 12, 1673.

6. SAMUEL³ ALLEN (John,² *Walter*¹) was born in Newbury, Mass., April 8, 1658. He was a farmer and lived in Sudbury, Mass., where he died Aug. 28, 1720, æ. 62. He married first, Jan. 4, 1684, Jane Ross (daughter of James Ross), of Sudbury, who was, perhaps, the Jane Allen who died Dec. 28, 1702. He married second, Abigail ———, who died March 26, 1714.

Children of Samuel and Jane, born in Sudbury:

- 13. i. JOHN, b. July 5, 1686.
- ii. SAMUEL, b. March 13, 1688; d. May 19, 1689.

- v. SALOME, m. John Shattuck, of Westboro'.

Children of Samuel and Abigail, born in Sudbury:

- i. MOSES, b. Sept. 9, 1705; nothing further known.
- ii. AARON, b. Dec. 31, 1707; nothing further known.
- iii. ABIGAIL, b. March 14, 1710; living in Dedham in 1732.

7. JOSEPH³ ALLEN (John,² *Walter*¹), farmer, was born in Newbury, Mass., March 18, 1660; went with his parents to Sudbury, Mass., two years later, and lived there until 1707–9, about which time he removed to Rehoboth. When he made his will, June 9, 1709, he was of Rehoboth, and "about to enter into the Country's Service." The only bequests are to his daughters Mercy, Ruth and Elizabeth, to whom he leaves his land in Sudbury. At the settlement of the estate in 1725, he is alluded to as heretofore of Rehoboth, but late of Sudbury. He was 65 years old in 1725.

Joseph married first, May 5, 1687, Abigail, daughter of John Myrick, of Charlestown, and second, Martha ———, who died before him. He was probably not related to the other Allens that settled early in Rehoboth.

Children of Joseph and Abigail :

- i. ABIGAIL, b. March 2, 1690; d. young.
- ii. MERCY.
- iii. RUTH, d. Nov. 18, 1716.

Children of Joseph and Martha, born in Sudbury :

- i. ELIZABETH, b. Oct. 2, 1704.
- ii. REBECCA, b. 1707; d. young.

8. BENJAMIN³ ALLEN (John,² *Walter*¹) was born in Newbury, Mass., Jan. 30, 1662, but was taken to Sudbury, Mass., the same year. He was a farmer, and lived at Watertown Farms (incorporated in 1712 as Weston), where he died Aug. 12, 1721, æ. 59. His tombstone is in the old burial ground at Weston Centre. He married Frances Rice (born Feb. 3, 1671), daughter of Thomas Rice, of Sudbury. The Boston Gazette says Benjamin's widow lived to be 96; if so, she died about 1767.

Children of Benjamin and Frances :

15. i. THOMAS, b. 1690.
- ii. FRANCES, m. Dec. 24, 1724, John Gregory, of Weston.
- iii. GRACE, b. 1696; m. Benjamin Harrington, and d. Jan. 6, 1730, in her 35th year.
16. iv. JONAS, b. Nov. 1, 1699.
17. v. ZEBADIAH, b. Jan. 19, 1702.
18. vi. BENJAMIN, b. Dec. 13, 1709.

9. ELNATHAN³ ALLEN (Daniel,² *Walter*¹) was born in Lancaster, Mass., Jan. 7, 1667, but lived there only a very few years. He was a farmer, and received land in the northwest part of Watertown in 1694 from his father. Previous to 1702, however, he moved to Sudbury, where he remained until about 1722, when he removed to Hopkinton, where he was chosen the first town treasurer in 1724, for, though incorporated in 1715, the first town government was not organized until 1724. Hopkinton has received some notoriety by being the birth-place of Capt. Daniel Shays (1747–1825) the instigator of Shays' Rebellion in 1786, and from being the residence of Sir Harry Frankland and Agnes Surriage, whose lives are so beautifully set forth in O. W. Holmes's poem "Agnes." Elnathan lived in Hopkinton until 1725, when he pushed on to Shrewsbury, in the heart of Worcester Co., Mass. "On Oct. 1, 1735, while standing on the hinder end of a cart load of stalks, his oxen started, whereby he fell off and was killed in his 69th year." His estate was settled by his son-in-law, Edward Newton. Elnathan was selectman of Shrewsbury in 1730 and in 1733. He married about 1694, Mercy, born Jan. 1, 1670, daughter of Henry Rice, an elder brother of Thomas. She died in 1727, æ. 57.

Children of Elnathan and Mercy, i. recorded in Watertown, iii. to vii. in Sudbury :

19. i. OBADIAH, b. Jan. 19, 1695; m. first Susannah Pratt.

- ii. ELIZABETH, m. 1723, Edward Newton, who was b. Oct. 5, 1701 (son of Edward, of Marlboro'), and moved to west part of Lancaster (now Sterling).
- iii. ANNA, b. Nov. 25, 1702; m. Dec. 12, 1722, Amos Pratt (1699-1747), who was captured by the Indians at Fort Massachusetts, Aug. 20, 1746, and died a prisoner at Quebec in 1747. He was a brother of Susannah Pratt who m. Obadiah Allen.
- 20. iv. ISRAEL, b. Dec. 20, 1705.
 - v. MARY, b. Feb. 28, 1708; d. young.
 - vi. MARY, b. July 14, 1711; d. unm.
 - vii. THANKFUL, b. Dec. 9, 1713; m. March, 1739, Daniel Whitney.

10. EBENEZER³ ALLEN (Daniel,² *Walter*¹) was born in Watertown, Mass., Dec. 26, 1674, but removed to Stonington, Conn., where he married Oct. 5, 1704, Anna Palmer, and was admitted to First Congregational Church, Oct. 7, 1705. The baptism of one child, Annie, is recorded Jan. 20, 1706. Nothing further is known of him, but he should not be confused, as is done in Bond's Watertown Genealogies, with the Ebenezer Allen (1677-1770), son of Lewis Allen, who is not related.

11. JOSEPH³ ALLEN (Joseph,² *Walter*¹) was born June 16, 1677, in Watertown Farms (now Weston), Mass., where he died Nov. 1, 1729, æ. 52. On his tomb-stone in the old burial ground at Weston Centre he is called an Ensign. He is buried near Lieut. Thomas Gearfield (1680-1752), one of President Garfield's ancestors, who lived in Weston or adjoining territory for 140 years (1630 to 1770). His will is dated fifteen years before his death, his only son Josiah being executor. Nathaniel married first, Lydia ———, who died April 26, 1750; and he married second, Dec. 10, 1751, Elizabeth, widow of William Bond, of Weston.

He married in Roxbury, Mass., Nov. 28, 1716, Susanna Beacon (Bacon), who was born in Roxbury, Oct. 2, 1695, daughter of John and Abiel (Curtiss) Beacon. She died Jan. 25, 1762.

Asa W. Allen, of Salem, O., in a little volume published in 1872, seems to think that this Ephraim was a son of an Ephraim Allen, who was in Roxbury in 1650, but gives no reason. With the exception of the marriage above given, the name of Ephraim Allen does not appear in the early Roxbury records, nor does it appear in the church records, nor the probate records, nor registry of deeds for the county. On the other hand, the administrator of the estate of Samuel³ Allen, in 1720, speaks of Salome, wife of John Shattuck, of Westboro', and it is probable the Ephraim Allen of Northboro' (then a part of Westboro') was her brother. The fact that Ephraim named his first son Samuel (after his father) would add weight, perhaps.

When eighteen years of age he left the farm for the carpenter's shop. His last work as a mechanic was in building the pews in the church at Bolton, Mass. He prepared for college at Andover Academy, then in charge of Mark Newman. Entering Harvard College in 1797, he graduated in 1801. He wrote several lengthy poems, two for exhibitions and one for graduation. During his collegiate course he taught school in the rural districts, teaching not only the usual courses but also music. and he played the bass viol as well as being a good singer. He began the study of divinity with his old pastor, Dr. Sumner of Shrewsbury, and completed it with Rev. Dr. Thaddeus Mason Harris of Dorchester, in whose pulpit he preached his first sermon. In 1803 he received and accepted a call to the church in Chelmsford, where he was ordained Nov. 16 and remained until Nov. 16, 1832, when he retired from the ministry and spent his remaining days on a small farm in Andover, where his death came, caused by a fall down the stairs of his barn.

As a minister he was a Unitarian of the old school, sincere and earnest. He was an early preacher on temperance in the days when everybody drank, including most ministers. Like ministers of his day he tilled the soil, for his salary was small, and in addition taught school four months of the year. He had a fine perception of the English, Greek and Latin classics, and urged and aided several young men to gain a liberal education. Three of his own sons he sent to college. He was a Mason, and passed to the highest orders existing in his day, being Chaplain in several stages of his ascension. He delivered several Masonic discourses. In 1816 or 1817 he established a public library, which he kept in his own house. He wrote a history of the town of Chelmsford, published in 1820 (192 pages). The quotation on the title page of this pamphlet is from his preface. The title page of his work follows:

NOTES UPON THE ALLEN FAMILY IN GENERAL.

The surname Allen comes from the Christian name Allen. As an instance of latter, Fitz-Aleyne (son of Allen) is found in the roll of Battle Abbey, that is, those who went to England with William the Conqueror. Alan, Constable of Scotland and Lord of Galloway and Cunningham, died in 1234. Surnames in England did not become permanent until about the 12th century. One of the first Allens that has been found is Thomas Allen, sheriff of London in 1414. Sir John Allen was mayor of London in 1525, Sir William Allen mayor in 1571, Sir Thomas Alleyne in 1659, and a Wm. Ferneley Allen as late as 1867. Among those who have borne the name may be mentioned William Allen, a Protestant martyr who was burned at the stake in 1555; Viscount Allen, Cardinal Allen (1532-1594), and Edward Alleyn (1566-1626), a distinguished actor and friend of Shakspeare and Ben Johnson. This Edward in 1619 founded Dulwich College (4 1-2 miles S.S.E. of St. Paul's, London), with the stipulation that the master and secretary must always bear the name of Allen. Competent men of that name have always been found to fill the positions. It should be said that the name is very common, J. Bernard Burke's "General Armory of England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales" enumerating 55 different Allen coats-of-arms, besides 3 Alans, 2 Alens, 6 Allaus, 3 Alleyns, 3 Alleynes and 3 Allins.

There are three Allans in the directory of The Hague, Holland, in 1892, and a firm of H. J. & R. van Allen, broodbakker, (bread bakers) in Amsterdam. The French form Allain survives, 36 being found in the 1892 Paris directory. Among the Acadians expelled from their homes in 1755 was Pierre Alin of Piere Le Blan, with one son and two daughters.

In America* there have been several distinct families of Allens. In a list of those living in Virginia, Feb. 16, 1623, is William Allen of Elizabeth City, æ. 22. In a list of passengers from England to Virginia in 1635 are Gregorie Allen and Richard Allen. The first in New England was perhaps Samuel Allen, who came with the first settlers of Boston, but was of Braintree 1635. This Samuel was the ancestor of Hon. Stephen M. Allen (1819-1894), the abolitionist. There seems to have been another Samuel Allen (1588-1648), who with his brothers, Thomas and Matthew, settled in Cambridge in 1632, but soon after removed to Connecticut. This second Samuel was the ancestor of the Revolutionary hero, Ethan Allen (1737-1789). George Allen settled in Saugus in 1635, but removed to Sandwich in 1639. Edward Allen was in Ipswich in 1636, but later moved to Deerfield. Ralph Allen of Newport, R. I., 1639, and Rehoboth in 1643, a Quaker, imprisoned in 1659, was probably a son of George. Bozone Allen settled in Hingham in 1638. Rev. Thomas Allen was minister of the church in Charlestown in 1639. Capt. John Allen was also in Charlestown as early as 1639, and in 1657 was the richest man there. William Allen was in Salisbury in 1639, and had several children. Rev. John Allen settled in Dedham in 1637 with his nephew, James Allen. The latter soon removed to Medfield, and was the ancestor of Rev. Joseph Allen (1790-1873) of Northboro, Rev. Jos. Henry Allen (1820-) of Cambridge, who is Rev. Joseph's son, of Col. Chas. Herbert Allen (b. 1848) of Lowell, M. C. 1884-1888, and candidate for governor of Massachusetts in 1891; of Nathaniel T. Allen (1823-), founder of the Newton English and Classical School, a nephew of Rev. Joseph, and of Benj. D. Allen, the Worcester organist. William Allen of Wales settled in Providence, R. I., in 1660, and Lewis Allen in Watertown previous to 1665. Samuel Allen (1636-1705), a London merchant, purchased in 1691 the New Hampshire grant extending sixty miles from the seacoast, but his claim as Governor and Proprietor was resisted by the settlers. There have been still other Allens, who came direct from England later, among them Capt. Nathaniel Allen (1699-1770), commander of a packet running from London to Boston, who settled in the latter place about 1734. He kept a store in Boston until 1757, when he bought a farm and moved to Shrewsbury, Mass. His descendants should not be confused with those of Elnathan Allen, who went there about 1725. Jolley Allen of Boston, Capt. Nathaniel's son, left with the British. Another son, Thomas Allen (1728-1793), moved to New London, Ct., and married a grand-daughter of Gov. Gurdon Saltonstall. A history of the descendants of Capt. Nathaniel was published in 1891, brief sketches of some of the other Allen families have been printed, and a history of the descendants of Edward Allen of Nantucket, by O. P. Allen of Palmer, Mass., is soon to be added to the list.

* The list of early American Allens here given is not complete, but it may serve to give some idea of the number that came early.

Four states, Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and Kansas have Allen counties, and there are several Allentowns, Allen Creeks, etc.

Among others who have achieved notoriety are William Allen, who assisted Franklin in establishing the College of Philadelphia, and was afterwards Chief Justice of Pennsylvania; William H. Allen, President of Girard College; Ephraim W. Allen (1780(?)-1846), for more than thirty years editor of the Newburyport Herald, in the office of which Wm. Lloyd Garrison learned the art of printing, and Hon. Wm. Allen (1806-1879) of Ohio, M. C., 1833-1837, U. S. Senator, 1837-1849, Governor of Ohio, 1873-1875, in which latter year he was defeated by Hon. R. B. Hayes. The Hon. William was sometimes called "Earthquake Allen" or the "Ohio Gong," because of his powerful voice, and he is said to have originated in 1844 the famous cry of "Fifty-four forty or fight."

The present Senator Allen, Hon. William Vincent Allen of Nebraska, was born in Ohio, in 1847, moved to Iowa in 1857, and thence in 1884 to Nebraska, where he has been a judge. He took his seat in the United States Senate in 1893.

Hon. John M. Allen, M.C., from Miss. was born in Miss. in 1847, and has represented his district in Congress since 1885. He is a descendant of the Virginia Allens. The Congressman from the new state of Utah is Clarence E. Allen, who took his seat Jan. 7, 1896. He is a native of Pennsylvania, and moved to Salt Lake City in 1881. Nathaniel Allen of New York State was M. C. from 1819 to 1821.

The family has produced many clergymen. In addition to those already alluded to may be mentioned Rev. James Allen (1691-1747), the first minister of Brookline, Mass.; Rev. James Allen (1632-1710), who came from England in 1662 to be minister of the First Church, Boston; Rev. William Allen (1676-1760), first minister of Greenland, N. H.; Rev. Timothy Allen (1715-1806) of Connecticut; Rev. Thomas Allen (1743-1810), a chaplain in the Revolution, and first minister of Pittsfield, Mass.; Rev. Moses Allen (1748-1779) of South Carolina and Georgia, a brother of the preceding and a chaplain in the Revolution as well; Rev. Solomon Allen (1751-1821), another brother, lieutenant in command of the guard that carried Major Andre to West Point, and afterwards a Western missionary; Rev. William Allen, D.D. (1784-1868), son of Rev. Thomas, assistant librarian of Harvard College, President of Dartmouth College 1817-1820, and of Bowdoin, 1820-1839; Rev. Richard Allen (1760-1831), the organizer of the first church (Methodist) for colored people in the United States, afterwards their Bishop; Rev. Harrison Allen (1792-1831), a missionary among the Choctaws.

NOTES.

Henry E. W.⁷ Allen (see page 34) died at the old Allen place in Shrewsbury, Oct. 27, 1896.

The statement made on page 42 that Mrs. Mary (Allen) Powers was a descendant of Samuel Allen of Braintree is probably erroneous. It would seem that she was the eldest daughter of Zebadiah⁶ Allen, Jr. (see page 14), and consequently second cousin to her husband.

Myron O.⁸ Allen, M.D. (see page 46), was born in Bombay, India, Feb. 15, 1832; m. in May, 1858, Susan W. Barnes, and d. in Lowell, Mass., Aug. 1, 1861. He began practice in 1855, in Wenham (Mass.), of which town he wrote a history (pp. 220), published in 1860. His uncle, Dr. Nathan Allen, wrote a history of Princeton, Mass., for the history of Worcester Co., and Rev. Wilkes Allen wrote a history of Chelmsford, Mass.

Jonathan Allen, 1815-1867 (see p. 49), entered Yale College in 1834, but did not complete the course. In 1838 he went to Pennsylvania and was for several years teacher and lecturer on anatomy in a private institution where he had constantly over a hundred medical students under his instruction. Afterwards he was demonstrator of anatomy in the Jefferson Medical College, whence he passed to the professorship of anatomy and physiology in the Pennsylvania Medical College.

Richard L.⁷ Allen (see page 48) was the author of a small, illustrated 12° volume (96 pages, 1852) entitled "Domestic Animals: History and Description of the horse, mule, cattle, sheep, swine, poultry and farm dogs." In 1856 he issued a larger volume (325 pp.) called the American Farm Book or compend of American Agriculture." A revised and enlarged edition (526 pp.) of the latter was published in 1869 by his brother, Lewis F. Allen.
